ARE REARED IN INDUSTRY

Good Work Done by Sisters of the Maison de Jesus Enfant—Make Embroideries and Brocades.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Mr. Playfair, acting consul general at Hankow, has called public attention to the "Practical Mission" work that is being done by the Ningpo School of Embroidery in China.

At Ningpo the Sisters of the Maison de Jesus Enfant have for twelve years been most active in the Westernizing of the Asiatic mind, their work beginning at the earliest stage of Chinese infancy, when they rescue annually from the grave some 700 girl children, who would otherwise be thrown into the river soon after birth. Those infants, that are saved are taken to live in the convent with the nuns, and as they grow up are taught useful handicrafts by the Sisters, and when old enough are married to suitable men, who have also been taught how to earn their living under civilized conditions.

Not only do these ceaseless working Sisters rescue the infant girls, but they have also provided an asylum for the very old women, which is managed under the same Christianizing influences, and here also are found cripples, imbeciles—in short, all the ills that flesh and blood can bring upon humanity. No human life, however impotent, is left unaided by these charitable women.

Its Influence Good.

The Ningpo School of Embroidery, of which Mr. Playfair speaks as having such good influence on the young people of China, was started by Sister Xavier Berkeley, a niece of the eighth Countess of Denbigh, and a member of a distinguished county family, the Berkeley of Spetchley. A year or so ago she was joined by Sister Magdalen Pelling, the Earl of Denbigh's sister, who is starting a branch of the same industry at Kinkiang, on the Yangtze river. Starting modestly with a few embroidery, the Ningpo school developed beyond all expectation, and now weaves its own satin and silks ready for the embroiderers.

The needlework is very beautiful, and as the Chinese are the most wonderful and accurate copyists, the sisters have been able to all the centers of the world famous in the cult of needlework to secure all their finest and most intricate designs for reproduction, with the result that today at Ningpo the Chinese needleworkers execute most elaborate and exquisite pieces of Italian, Flemish, Hungarian, old Byzantine, or English design.

Aided by Queen.

Queen Victoria accepted as a jubilee gift from the Ningpo schools a bedspread of great art beauty, and the Princess of Wales, when Duchess of York, was also good enough to help the richly worked train of Ningpo embroidery at a palace drawing room, which created some sensation, it was so very beautiful.

The establishment and conduct of the Ningpo school rely entirely on the sales of its embroideries and brocades, and so earnest in their endeavors are the young women, that they have enrolled Lady Mary Howard, the Duke of Norfolk's daughter, and Lady Winifred Cary Elwell, and Miss Maud Berkeley, of Great Malvern, as active co-workers in England, where they have a ready market for the Ningpo consignments of lovely bedspreads, court gowns, tea gowns, baby robes and cushions, which are sent home from time to time by the Sisters of Charity working at Ningpo. The embroideries are as cheap as they are artistic and effective.

NEGROES OF ARKANSAS
SPREAD THE SMALLPOXGovernment Official Males Report to Health and Marine Hospital Service.

The cotton-picking negroes of Arkansas are sending smallpox contagion broadcast, according to a report on the smallpox situation in Arkansas, submitted to the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service.

Since the time when the disease first prevailed in this State several years since, he says, "there have been cases occasionally during the warmer months of each year with marked annual increase with the advent of cold weather."

"The negroes, in most cases, have preferred to take the chances of a light case of smallpox rather than the risk of severe arm."

"On many plantations all sanitary precautions have been neglected, houses where the disease had prevailed in one year being occupied the following one by families wholly unprotected either by previous attack or by vaccination."

"With the advent of cold weather last fall, the smallpox appeared as usual, but it was soon apparent that the disease was decidedly more widespread than heretofore, the death rate being many times larger than in the previous recent outbreaks."

OMITTED.

Owing to pressure of other matter, we have to omit the usual editorial page this week. The people have not lost much by its omission, however, as it only contained "A Plan to Settle the Differences Between the Japs and Russians." "A Way to Dispose of the Land Fraud Cases." "Confidence With Mrs. Chadwick and Mrs. Duke." "How to Organize The Hague Tribunal." "Competition of the Censorship of the Water Commission." "A Slam at Sam." "Tillamook's Electric Railroad." "How to Carry the Federal Parent of a Mule" (with special local reference) and "Red Hot Shot" paragraphs. We regret this loss of labor on the part of the overworked editor, while extending hearty congratulations to the reader—Tillamook (Ore.), Independent.

EXCESSIVE KANSAS

Wants to Hang Rockefeller and His Buzzards.

BILL FOR STATE REFINERY

People Are Saying Things—Preachers
Talk From Pulpit—Few Hot Shot
From One Embodying.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 6.—The battle against the Standard Oil Company will begin this week before the Kansas legislature. The battle will be over the passage of a State oil refinery bill carrying an appropriation of $400,000.

The advocates of the bill claim twenty-three of the forty senators. The consideration of the measure is a special order Tuesday. Speaker Stubbs of the house declares this socialist measure will never pass that body. Governor Hoch opposes so large an appropriation.

Tar and Feathers Mentioned.

Wild talk is heard in the hotel lobbies, tar and feathers have been suggested for Standard Oil lobbyists, and the statement that "hanging is not too good for Rockefeller and his buzzards," is frequently heard from hotel floors. Meetings of citizens being held all over the oil belt, where petitions are signed and resolutions adopted denouncing the Standard and urging the Legislature to pass the bill. A dozen preachers brought their flocks to stand for their rights and help throttle this giant monopoly.

Thomas Benton Murdock, who stands close to the State administration, has fired the producers with incendiary threats. He said:

Incendiary Talk.

"After a little the people of the country will rise up and hang a few Rockefeller and other kinds of buzzards who rob the people, not forgetting to include in the general hangings a squad or two of judges, when all this plotting, plotting and robbing all these 'technical' court proceedings will stop."

"For my part, I would like to see the hangings commence tomorrow."

"I am a private citizen, you know, and speak for myself, but I am more thoroughly convinced than ever that something radical will have to be done in this land of the free and the home of the brave, if the average citizen is to have any voice."

TO TURN LANDMARK
INTO WOODEN LEGS

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 6.—The old willow tree, which for some seventy years has been a landmark along the banks of Solomon's Creek, near Ashley, has been cut down to be made into artificial legs.

The borough of Ashley granted permission to a maker of wooden legs to use the tree, the wood being peculiarly adapted to the purpose.
